Name: Jeannine Doyle.

Title: Executive vice president and partner for Linthicum Custom Builders LLC.

Age: 44.

What I do: I oversee many aspects of our business, including client relationships, risk management, contract negotiations, preconstruction activities, and overall organizational development including the training and mentoring of our team.

About my business: We are a boutique builder, specializing in unique custom projects — large custom residential estates, golf and resort amenity projects including golf clubhouses and spas, and commercial projects such as libraries and religious facilities.

Along the way, we build long-lasting client relationships.

Much of our work is repeat business.

While our corporate office is based in Scottsdale, we have expanded our operations to the Hawaiian island of Kauai and the deserts of California.

What I've learned in business: The importance of building relationships as part of the building process.

Jeannine
Doyle

Whether internal or external, it is one of the most critical aspects in a successful project.

Goals: To continue to build our portfolio of work to reinforce our position as the builder of choice for unique custom projects and thus continuing to grow our business and our people in the process.

What community I live in: My home is in Glendale where we have lived since 1993. Since we have an office on the island of Kauai, I have the unique opportunity of splitting my time between my home in Glendale and a residence on Kauai.

Affiliations: Arizona Builders Alliance.

Where I grew up: While I was born in Page, Ariz., I grew up in parts of California, Washington, and Colorado.

Before moving back to Arizona in 1989, I considered Colorado home as I spent my high school years in a small town named Salida and went to Colorado State University in Fort Collins.

After graduating from CSU, my husband and I lived in Fort Collins until 1988.

Family: My husband, Robert, and I have been married since 1984. I enjoy spending time with my sisters, our nieces and nephews.

Favorite Film: Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves.

Favorite Book: Green Darkness by Anya Seton.

First concert: Dan Fogelberg.
